TRIBUTE TO A HEROINE

Ladies of the Baptist church paid a sincere and heartfelt tribute to the memory of Miss Mattie Harley, former head nurse at the Massie Memorial Hospital, in Paris, when they visited her grave in the Paris Cemetery and placed a beautiful wreath of flowers thereon. Songs, prayer and reading of Scriptural texts supplemented the floral tribute.

During the influenza epidemic in 1918, when the Massie Hospital was crowded to its capacity with victims of the disease, Miss Harley, who was in charge of the nurses, worked unrelentingly for days and nights, without sleep or rest, in efforts to save the lives of those entrusted to her care. Worn out with her arduous labors, she contracted the disease and died in November, 1918, her life a noble and unselfish sacrifice to duty. Her memory remains as a blessing and an inspiration to many who were brought safely through their long illness by her constant care and attention. Verily "She was willing to go into the darkness of death that others might be saved."

THE BATTLE FOR HEALTH

Modern civilization breaks down many people at a premature age. There is at all times in the community a group of folks who are struggling against heavy odds in the form of physical handicaps, and they are entitled to the warm sympathy and best wishes of their neighbors.

Frequently these folks become totally discouraged even when some change in occupation or otherwise would bring them recovery. A remarkable illustration of what men have done through courage and taking up some health giving occupation, is given in the story of Mr. D. V. Burrell, of Rocky Ford, Colo., as told in the American Magazine. At one time given up as incurable by his physicians, he recovered his health as a result of taking up work on a farm, and now has developed one of the biggest seed producing businesses in the world.

Many people who have lost their health by too much confinement indoors, could recover it by the healthy life of farming in Bourbon county.
